

Greetings BWiS subscribers and Members, February is the month of love and pancakes. I hope you all got to experience all of this.

In this newsletter, we go February's events, highlight some key dates in March, and share our public calendar.

the black women in science
network

A Date with SciComm (Cell Press)

For the first event of our 2022 calendar, we discussed scientific communication with some of the amazing Cell Press team. They were able to give an insight into the world of scientific writing and publication. You can watch the event back here. Thank you again to all of those who were able to give us feedback, we're working on taking action on your comments. If you signed up to the event and wanted to give feedback, you have until the 15th of March to do so via this form.

Live Q&A on the Sanger Excellence Fellowship

The Live Q&A for the Sanger Excellence Fellowship happened on the 7th of February at it was great to see quite a few of you there. The Sanger Excellence Fellowship is a new three-year fully funded Fellowship aimed at people from Black-heritage backgrounds, created to enable Black early career researchers to train and develop their portfolio of research experience. All the best to those who applied!

Brunch Talks with BWiS

As always, our Brunch Talks happened on the third Saturday of the month. Since we spoke about so much, we did send through a follow up email to Members with the mentioned links and topics. For those new to the Network, Brunch Talks with BWiS is an informal, virtual hour in a space exclusively for Black women in science. The links are sent to Members (Black women in any science industry at any stage of their career can become a Member for free). If you have any questions or want more information, please do send us an email at admin@bwisnetwork.com. The next four dates for your calendars are:

- 19th March
- 16th April
- 21st May
- 18th June

If you are ever looking to see what we have coming up, you can check our events calendar. We have now opened this up so you can also subscribe to via Google Calendar or iCal. Never miss an event again!

Key dates in March

Keep an eye out for our March newsletter, which will have lots of updates on events and Network updates.

Have a great month,
Black Women in Science Network